

INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION
FOR LITERARY JOURNALISM STUDIES

The International Association for Literary Journalism Studies is a multidisciplinary learned society whose essential purpose is the encouragement and improvement of scholarly research and education in literary journalism (or literary reportage). For the purposes of scholarly delineation, our definition of literary journalism is “journalism as literature” rather than “journalism about literature.” Moreover, the association is explicitly inclusive and warmly supportive of a wide variety of approaches to the study and teaching of literary journalism throughout the world. The association’s web address is <http://www.ialjs.org>.

IALJS OFFICERS

Bill Reynolds, President
Ryerson University
School of Journalism
350 Victoria St., Toronto, Ontario
M5B 2K3, Canada
+01-416-979-5000 x6294
fax +01-416-979-5216
reynolds@ryerson.ca

Norman Sims, First Vice President
University of Massachusetts, Amherst
Department of Journalism,
Bartlett Hall #108
Amherst, MA 01003, United States
+01-413-545-5929
fax +01-413-545-3880
sims@journ.umass.edu

Isabel Soares, Second Vice President
Universidade Técnica de Lisboa
Instituto Superior de Ciências Sociais
e Políticas Pólo Universitário
do Alto da Ajuda
Rua Almerindo Lessa 1300-663
Lisboa , Portugal
+351-213-619-430
isoares@iscsp.utl.pt

David Abrahamson,
Secretary-Treasurer
Northwestern University
Medill School of Journalism
Evanston, IL 60201, United States
+01-847-332-2223
fax +01-847-332-1088
d-abrahamson@northwestern.edu

John Bak, founding president, 2006–2008