

International Association for Literary Journalism Studies

The International Association for Literary Journalism Studies is a multi-disciplinary learned society whose essential purpose is the encouragement and improvement of scholarly research and education in literary journalism (or literary reportage). For the purposes of scholarly delineation, our definition of literary journalism is “journalism as literature” rather than “journalism about literature.” Moreover, the association is explicitly inclusive and warmly supportive of a wide variety of approaches to the study and teaching of literary journalism throughout the world. The association’s web address is www.ialjs.org.

IALJS Officers

David Abrahamson, President

Northwestern University
Medill School of Journalism
1845 Sheridan Road, Evanston, Illinois 60208 U.S.A.
+01-847-467-4159
fax +01-847-332-1088
d-abrahamson@northwestern.edu

Alice Donat Trindade, Vice President

Universidade Técnica de Lisboa
Instituto Superior de Ciências Sociais e Políticas
Pólo Universitário do Alto da Ajuda
Rua Almerindo Lessa, 300-663 Lisboa, Portugal +351-213-619-430
fax +351-213-619-442
atrindade@iscsp.utl.pt

Bill Reynolds, Secretary-Treasurer

Ryerson University
School of Journalism
350 Victoria Street, Toronto, Ontario M5B 2K3, Canada
+01-416-979-5000 x6294
fax +01-416-979-5216
reynolds@ryerson.ca

John Bak, Past President

Nancy-Université
Centre de Télé-enseignement Universitaire (CTU)
42-44, avenue de la Liberation, B.P. 3397, 54015 Nancy, France +33-(0)383-968-448
fax +33-(0)383-968-449
john.bak@univ-nancy2.fr