

Literary Journalism Studies

The Journal of the International Association for Literary Journalism Studies

Vol. 7, No. 1, Spring 2015

Information for Contributors	4
Note from the Editor	5

Women and Literary Journalism: A Special Issue	6
On Recognition of Quality Writing by Leonora Flis	7
From Fiction to Fact: Zora Neale Hurston and the Ruby McCollum Trial Roberta S. Maguire	17
The Life Story of Mrs. Ruby J. McCollum! By Zora Neale Hurston	37
Meridel Le Sueur, Dorothy Day, and the Literary Journalism of Advocacy During the Great Depression by Nancy L. Roberts	45
The Works of Edna Staebler: Using Literary Journalism to Celebrate the Lives of Ordinary Canadians by Bruce Gillespie	59
Rebels with a Cause: Women Reporting the Spanish Civil War by Isabelle Meuret	79
Preferring “Dirty” to “Literary” Journalism: In Australia, Margaret Simons Challenges the Jargon While Producing the Texts by Sue Joseph	101
Leila Guerriero and the Uncertain Narrator by Pablo Calvi	119
Alexandra Fuller of Southern Africa: A White Woman Writer Goes West by Anthea Garman and Gillian Rennie	133
SCHOLAR-PRACTITIONER Q+A William Dow and Leonora Flis interview Barbara Ehrenreich	147
BOOK REVIEWS	159

Mission Statement	178
International Association for Literary Journalism Studies	179